57 Lost In Crash Of Plane

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea (UP) —A Dutch KLM Airline Super-Constellation caught fire on take-off from the South Pacific island of Biak today and crashed into the sea in flames with 68 persons on board.

Officials said 57 persons were feared dead. Eleven bodies have been recovered.

Twelve persons, including Miss Klein Klowenberg the stewardess, were rescued. But one of the survivors, a child, died later of burns.

The 11 other survivors were in a hospital on Biak, an island just north of New Guinea.

Those on board included nine crew members and 58 passengers, 20 of them children. All the crewmen were Dutch, while all but three passengers also were Dutch. The other three were British.

KLM officials said the plane, bound for Amsterdam, by way of Manila, Djakarta, Bangkok, Rangoon, Karachi, Beirut and Rome, probably developed "technical trouble" during takeoff and caught fire.

Pilot is Dead

The pilot, Rob de Roos, 37, who died in the crash, "apparently decided to make a crash - landing at sea, or possibly even at the nearby Owi Atoll" KLM said.

"He succeeded in putting down his crippled plane on the surface of the sea," a KLM spokesman said. "In doing so, he enabled the rescue of 12 people. How these were rescued is still unknown."

The plane, a Constellation of the KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, was reported to have sunk in 700 feet of water. It was taking off from Mokmer airstrip which was hacked out of a coral island by U.S. Navy Seabees in World War II.

The plane carried 59 passengers, three of them Britons and the remainder Dutch, and a crew of nine, all Dutch. Many of the victims were consular officials and naval officers and their families en route to Holland on leave.

Biak Island is off the northern tip of New Guinea and was used by the U.S. Navy during the war for operations against the Japanese-held Solomon Islands. KLM uses the old airstrip for a twice weekly service to Amsterdam.

Holland maintains a naval base on Biak and Dutch Royal Marines from the base launched boats to search for the survivors shortly after the early morning crash.

Native islanders also launched their canoes to help in the search.

Airline officials said the plane took off, caught fire and then plunged into the sea, cracking apart as it hit. The stewardess and other survivors were flung out.

KLM officials said the plane's first stop would have been Manila.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr

Senator Kerr Says Eisenhower Has no 'Brains'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Robert S. Kerr's remark about President Eisenhower's "brains" is not the first time Eisenhower has been the target of sharp personal attack. In fact, every president since Washington has been subjected to caustic criticism.

The Oklahoma Democrat charged Monday that Eisenhower could not understand fiscal policies because that takes "brains and he doesn't have them."

Presidents have been attacked for everything from their choice of wives to trapping squirrels on the White House lawn.

George Washington hadn't even arrived in the capital to begin serving as the nation's first chief executive before congressional critics were accusing him of being too "monarchical."

Thomas Jefferson was labelled a "revolutionary" and a "dangerous radical" while Andrew Jackson was termed a "demagogue" and "rabble-rouser." Franklin D. Roosevelt was called a "dictator" and Theodore Roosevelt was castigated as "that damn cowboy."

Eisenhower is not the only president who had to endure attacks

Police Are Fired by Lawrence

BULLETIN
PITTSBURGH (UP) —Mayor David L. Lawrence today fired three policemen accused of covering up the arrest of alleged racketeer Tony Grosso.

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dismissal of three policemen, charged with covering up the arrest of Pittsburg racket figure Tony Grosso, was recommended by a police trial board Monday.

A fourth officer was exonerated when records demonstrated he was on vacation the morning of the arrest last July .

Recommended for dismissal were Acting Lt. Joseph Bell, who booked Grosso under the alias, "Joseph Moro"; Patrolman William Killeen, a veteran of 17 years service, who made the arrest, and Patrolman George Tarr, accused of being at the scene.

Charged With Misconduct

The trial board held the three failed to recognize a person of known notoriety and were guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Cleared was Patrolman Jack Duffy.

The trial board had heard three different stories during testimony last Friday.

Killeen said he arrested Grosso for disorderly conduct when the latter allegedly became abusive in downtown Pittsburgh. He said he did not recognize Grosso.

Grosso said he suffered a head wound when knocked down by a stranger apparently running for a trolley.

But a Pittsburgh newspaperman, Chester Harris, testified he interviewed Killeen after the incident and the officer told him he knocked Grosso against a wall. Killeen also told Harris, the newspaperman said, that Duffy and Tarr were behind Grosso at the time.

Up To Mayor

The trial boards recommendations were forwarded to Mayor David L. Lawrence for final action.

However, attorney T. Robert Brennan, counsel for the Fraternal Order of Police, said he would appeal to the Civil Service Commission even before Mayor Lawrence acted officially in the case. That could lead to other appeals through the courts.

The sharp punishment came on a split decision of the three-member board. Two favored firing the three officers while one favored a year's suspension, as was handed to Acting Lt. Allen Carnahan who was the central figure in a similar alleged "coverup" case.

Carnahan, shot with his own service revolver while with an alleged call girl in an after-hours club, subsequently resigned under pressure.

Pinball Test Tomorrow in Fayette Court

A test case to determine the legality of pinball machines will be heard tomorrow morning in Fayette County court.

The case was forced by state police who seized 41 machines in a series of raids on June 20 in Uniontown, Brownsville and Connellsville.

Police are seeking a ruling to have the machines destroyed on the allegation they are gambling devices.

Defense Attorneys William E. Duffield and Louis C. Glasso, of Pittsburgh, have already asked for the court's permission to enter two of the machines as evidence.

It has also been hinted that two experts on pinball machines will be brought in from Chicago, Ill., to voice opinions on the legality of the machines.

Answers filed by the defense attorneys have asked for the return of the pinball devices.

Bakery Truck Driver Hurt in Unusual Crash

Edward S. Nowak, of Richeyville, was injured in an unusual traffic accident yesterday at the intersection of Schoonmaker Ave. and Manown St.

Nowak, a driver for the Lincoln Baking Co. of West Brownsville, was sorting baked goods in his parked truck when he noticed a car swerving his direction.

Jumping to avoid the collision, Nowak suffered injuries to his right arm and ankle, according to Monessen police.

Nowak's truck was struck by a car operated by George Klochak, Jr., of 511 Castner Ave., Donora.

Klochak told police he swerved into the truck to avoid a collision with a car pulling out of Manown St.

Police said both the truck and car were damaged by the impact.

Leaking Ice Box Brings Firemen

North Belle Vernon firemen, answering an alarm at 11 o'clock last night, found a leaky refrigerator but no flames at the home of Frank Runfola, 936 Graham St., Belle Vernon.

The Runfolas apparently became excited when the gas began escaping from the refrigerator. They called the firemen who promptly obliged by hauling the cooler out of the house.

Area TV Channel Is Assured by Merger

NEW YORK (UP)—Hearst Publishing Co., Inc. and Allegheny Broadcasting Corp., owners of radio station KQV, Pittsburgh, signed a merger agreement Monday to operate television Channel 4 in Irwin, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

Operation of the proposed new station by the merged group is subject to approval by the Federal Communications Commission.

Three other applicants for the channel were reported to have agreed to withdraw their petitions on assurance they would be reimbursed for fees and costs incurred in seeking the allocation.

They are the Matta Enterprises, owners of WLOA in Braddock, Pa.; Irwin Community Television, headed by Edward Hirshberg, owner of radio station WEDO in McKeesport, Pa. and Wespen Television, headed by Scott Fink, Greensburg, Pa.

Another contingency in the agreement is approval by WEDO stockholders. Officials of the station have approved the plan subject to stockholder concurrence.

According to the agreement, the new owners would raise two million dollars to begin operation of the channel. KQV radio station would be sold. A six-man board of directors was to be named—three to be appointed by Hearst interests and three by Allegheny Broadcasting. The new corporation would be known as Television City Inc.

The proposed six member board would consist of the following:

Leonard Kapner, president and general manager of Pittsburgh radio station WCAE, A Hearst outlet; Edward D. Becker, former publisher of the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph and presently with the Hearst organization on the West Coast; H. Meridith Ewing, Pittsburgh attorney and WCAE director Earl F. Reed, Pittsburgh attorney and president of Allegheny Broadcasting Corp.; Lee W. Eckles, attorney and present secretary treasurer of Allegheny Broadcasting, and Irwin D. Wolf, Pittsburgh

Ike Expected to Win First Round in Civil Rights Battle

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican congressional leaders said today that President Eisenhower is not willing to "compromise" his civil rights legislation but would not object to "clarification."

This was reported as both friends and foes of the bill agreed that the Senate will give the administration a smashing first-round victory later today.

The test will come in a vote on Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland's motion to bring the four-point measure formally before the Senate, bypassing the Judiciary Committee.

The vote could come as early as about 4:15 p.m. e.d.t. and as late as 6:15 p.m.

Knowland reported the President's attitude after the weekly legislative conference at the White House. Asked if the administration is ready to compromise, said Knowland: "The word is clarification, and not compromise." The Chief Executive's "basic" position remains unchanged, Knowland said.

No Explanation

Knowland declined to define what he meant by clarification. He said any detailed discussion must await actual Senate consideration of the controversial measure.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) predicted the motion would carry by a 2½-to-1 majority. This would mark the first time a rights bill has gotten that far in the Senate in more than a decade.

Southern foes were reluctant to concede defeat but privately they agreed with Dirksen.

Immediately after the vote Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) planned to offer a motion to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee with instructions to report it back to the Senate in seven days. Morse does not want to bypass the appropriate Senate committee, which Knowland's motion does. The Oregon senator's move is expected to be defeated — possibly late today or Wednesday.

Then will come the formal stage of debate on the bill which once

No Decision in Parente-Stieska Nomination Case

Three Westmoreland County judges had not decided by noon today whether Mayor Hugo J. Parente or John R. Stieska is the Republican nominee in Monessen's upcoming mayoralty campaign.

The jurists, sitting en banc, heard attorneys re-hash arguments yesterday morning in the write-in controversy. It was indicated at that time, that an early decision would be forthcoming.

Regardless of how the county judges rule, the case is expected to reach the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, whose opinion would probably set a precedent.

Mayor Parente easily defeated Stieska for the Democratic nomination. Both men also staged write-in campaigns on the Republican ticket.

The County Elections Board earlier certified Parente as the winner of the GOP vote, ruling that only votes could be counted if the candidates names were correctly spelled. Under that interpretation, Parente had 70 votes to 58 for Stieska.

President Judge Richard D. Laird reversed that ruling, stating that all votes cast should be counted. On that basis, Stieska was the winner, 170 to 149.

Parente's attorneys appealed Judge Laird's decision and asked for the court to hear the arguments, en banc.

Cancer Society Drive to Reach Goal in County

The 1957 fund drive of the American Cancer Society is almost certain to reach its goal in Westmoreland County.

That was the optimistic report today from County Campaign Chairman Lewis M. Potter, of Latrobe.

Potter reported that $36,210 has been collected to date, with a month and a half still to go in the current drive. The county goal is $40,000.

In Monessen, a total of $1,529 has already been collected by volunteer workers in charge of Mrs. Irving Bayer and Mrs. Morris Epstein.

Potter said he was "very gratified" by the fine response in the county. Percentage wise, Westmoreland's increase over last year ranks the county fourth highest in Pennsylvania.

A breakdown of expenditures by the American Cancer Society shows that 31 cents of each dollar is spent on service to cancer patients, 29 cents for public and professional education, 25 cents for research, and 15 cents for medical grants and program development.

Approximately one-half of all money raised in the Westmoreland County Chapter's drive will be spent within this county.

Charleroi Man Is Fined for Gambling

Charles W. Garbutt, of Charleroi, paid a $100 fine after pleading guilty to a charge of maintaining a gambling establishment before Washington County Judge David H. Weiner yesterday.

The case against a second man, James Troiano, of Charleroi was not prosecuted.

Garbutt and Troiano were arrested March 23 during a raid by state police on the Central Pool Room, McKean Ave., Charleroi.

Salvation Army Drive Passes $10,000 Mark

A campaign to raise $25,000 in the Monongahela Valley to eliminate debt on the Salvation Army's new building in Monessen has passed the $10,000 mark, it was announced today.

General Chairman Harry C. Gribben reported that $10,426.10 has been received to date, most of it from local unions of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-AFL).

Gribben listed contributions totaling $5,824.25 from members of three USW locals representing employes of the Pittsburgh Steel Co. in Monessen.

They are Locals 1229, which represents most production employes; Local 3403 which represents employes of the Monessen Southwestern Railroad, and Local 3496 representing white collar workers at the Pittsburgh Steel plant here.

Local 1758, representing production workers at the American Steel & Wire Division of U. S. Steel Corp. in Donora, has reported $2,643.25 with one department still to be heard from, Gribben said.

The balance of $1,958.60 in today's report came from miscellaneous sources, according to the chairman.

Gribben said solicitation is continuing throughout the Valley area served by the Salvation Army's Monessen branch.

A report is expected soon from the Charleroi committee, he said, and solicitors are now completing work in the Monessen business district. No corporate gifts have been reported as yet.

The Salvation Army's new building on Schoonmaker Ave. near Third St. was completed last year at a total cost of $126,654.

One Side Only To Be Used for 90 Day Trial

New traffic regulations — including a parking ban on one side of Donner Ave. — will go into effect in downtown Monessen in the near future.

Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka announced the new regulations today as workmen made preparations to remove street car rails from Donner Ave.

Kuvinka said that no parking will be permitted on the north side of Donner Ave. between Fourth and Sixth streets once the rails have been completely removed.

That is the side of Donner on which Check's Furniture, Penney's, Fisher's, etc, are located.

Kuvinka said the no-parking regulation has been approved on a 90-day trial basis. The ban will eliminate 38 parking stalls.

Alley Parking Ban

The Monessen police chief also announced strict regulations for Railroad Alley between Fourth and Sixth streets.

Beginning Monday, absolutely no parking will be permitted in the Alley, said Kuvinka. Offenders will have their cars towed away.

Only trucks which are actually being loaded will be allowed to park along the alley. Merchants will also be informed that no outside storage is permitted.

Kuvinka said the Chamber of Commerce has agreed to inform all merchants along the Alley of the new regulations. He said there will be no exceptions.

The actual removal of rails from Donner Ave. may start as early as next Monday.

The work will not require a detour. However, there will be no parking allowed on the block in which actual rail removal is in progress.

It is estimated that a block of rail will be removed each day.

City officials hope that the entire length of Donner Ave. will be free of rails in about a month.

Later in the year, Donner will be repaved.

Monessen's traffic situation in general, and the Donner Ave. problem in particular, was discussed last night at a meeting between City Council and the Parking and Traffic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The new regulations are an outgrowth of that meeting.

$15,000 Blaze In West Newton

Firemen estimated damages at more than $15,000 in a blaze which swept through a West Newton clothing store yesterday morning.

Hit by flames of undetermined origin was the Hixon's Men's Furnishing Store, 107 Main St.

The blaze apparently started in the rear of the building and spread quickly to the front part of the store, firemen said.

Mrs. Eleanor Streicher, who occupies an apartment in the same building, discovered the blaze when she went to her kitchen to investigate "crackling sounds." Looking from her window, she saw flames leaping from the building.

Five Injured in Head-on Crash Near Bentleyville

Five persons were injured in a head-on collision on Legislative Route 62040 about five miles north of Bentleyville yesterday morning, according to state police.

The injured included three teenaged boys from Charleroi: Charles F. Costanza, 16, of 634 Lincoln Ave., William Hogan, 16, of 311 Meadow Ave., and Robert Dougherty, 16 of 1016 Fallowfield Ave. All of them suffered cuts and bruises, police said.

Also hurt were Katherine Wade, 67, of Pittsburgh, and Viola Brewer, 52, of 121 Betram St. Bentleyville. The former sustained possible rib injuries while the latter suffered a fractured right knee. They were occupants of a car operated by Alfonza Wade, 70, of Pittsburgh.

State police said the Charleroi boys were riding north in a car operated by Costanza. He told police he lost control of his car and ran off the road.

In an effort to get back on to the highway, the Costanza car ran into the Wade Vehicle approaching in the opposite direction, police said.

Damage to each car was listed by police as $1,000.

Ellsworth Hotel Liquor License Under Appeal

A liquor license granted to the Ellsworth Hotel was appealed yesterday in Washington County Court by the First Presbyterian Church of Ellsworth.

The Church is situated on Route 71, or South Main St., directly across from the hotel.

The liquor license, first ever granted for the 57-year-old hotel, was approved by the State Liquor Control Board after a hearing last May. The licensees are two brothers, Frank C. and Joseph D. Ross, and their wives Helen and Mary, who acquired the hotel less than a year ago.

The church, in its appeal, contends that the license violates a 300 foot limit which must separate the license from the church.

Church officials testified on one side while the licensees and various borough officials appeared on the other.

By agreement, the case will be argued before the full court at a later date.

Work to Start on Signal at Bridge

North Charleroi borough officials announced today that work will probably start this week on a traffic signal at the Charleroi-Monessen bridge.

Several groups — including two United Steelworkers locals in Monessen — have asked for the traffic signal to relieve congestion at the busy intersection.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Monessen Civic Library Association has been called for tomorrow at 5 p. m., President Charles C. Throop said today.

Cement Strike Threatens Halt Of Big Projects

By UNITED PRESS

A prolonged strike which has cut the nation's cement production by 70 to 75 per cent today threatened to halt work on several more multimillion-dollar construction projects and idle thousands of additional workers.

Federal mediators believe negotiations this week will determine whether the walkout, which has idled some 16,000 cement workers across the nation, will be settled or drag on for weeks to come.

In Pennsylvania, three major ready-mix cement firms in the Lhigh Valley closed during the weekend, and spokesmen said the resulting cement shortage is expected to idle about 4,000 construction workers this week. About 6,000 cement workers are on strike in the Lehigh Valley.

Railroads in Pennsylvania also were beginning to feel the pinch of the strike. About 600 railway employes have been furloughed as a result of a cutback in cement shipments.

The Army Corps of Engineers has been forced to draw on Navy cement stocks to continue work on its priority projects such as construction facilities at the guided missile center in Cocoa, Fla.

Col. Paul Troxler, Jacksonville, Fla., district engineer, said two non priority projects were halted last week and the situation "could be serious" if the cement shortage continues.

Representatives of the striking United Cement, Line and Gypsum Workers International Union are scheduled to meet with spokesmen of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. today in Bunnell, Fla., in an effort to end the walkout.

Spokesmen for the Army Engineers were optimistic that a strike settlement was in sight.

Crux of the walkout, which is now in its third month in some eastern plants, is a union demand for an hourly wage boost of 13.5 cents, plus fringe benefits of 2.5 cents, retroactive to May 1.

A New Jersey construction industry spokesman Monday appealed for President Eisenhower's intervention to end the strike. Paul Brienza, Newark, managing director of the state's Building Contractors Association, urged that the President invoke the Taft-Hartley Act to halt the walkout.

However, federal mediators threw cold water on the suggestion, saying the strike probably could be settled without action from the President.

'Brains'

on his intelligence. The late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) quoted a "Democratic senator" in 1951 as saying that President Truman was "stubbornly stupid."

Eisenhower also has come under attack from Democratic senators for such things as White House squirrels and his religious habits.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) criticized the President because three White House squirrels were trapped and removed for "scratching Dwight D. Eisenhower's favorite putting green."

In 1955, Sen. Matthew M. Neely (D-W.Va.) accused the President of being hypocritical in his church attendance, saying "Eisenhower never joined a church until after he became president."

Capehart Defends President

Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.) is reported to have said that Eisenhower and Teamsters President Dave Beck were "the same kind of immoralists." He said he could see no difference in principle in "Dave Beck putting his hands in the pockets of his union" and the "Eisenhower administration putting its hands in the taxpayers' pockets."

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) rose to the defense of the President Monday telling Kerr "You should be ashamed of yourself." Kerr promptly referred to Capehart as the "midget from Indiana."

Capehart also defended Eisenhower earlier this year against Morse's remarks, accusing the Oregon senator of being 'intellectually dishonest and immoral." Morse retorted that Capehart could "best be described as a cup of rancid ignorance."

threatened an all-out southern filibuster lasting up to eight weeks. With talk of compromise now in the air, Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) predicted confidently the Senate, without a filibuster, will pass a "purely voting rights" bill with a proviso for jury trials, and that "It will be behind us in two weeks."

Month Of Debate

Knowland thought the debate more likely will wind up about Aug. 15 — still two weeks earlier than his original Sept. 1 forecast.

The bill, as passed by the House, provides for a bipartisan commission to investigate violations of voting rights; a new civil rights division in the Justice Department; government authority to seek injunctions in federal courts to halt conspiracies against civil rights, and similar injunction authority to prevent threatened abridgment of Negro voting rights either by private persons or public officials.

Boys Arrested In River Theft

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Police today announced the arrest of two teenaged boys whom they said stole a motorboat in Charleroi to travel 12 miles up the Monongahela River to commit a robbery here.

Authorities said the boys, both from Monongahela, stole a boat owned by Russell Gray of Charleroi. They docked the craft here and entered the Krause Department Store where they allegedly stole three radios.

Later, the youths went to a theater and were arrested as they left the movie house. Both were turned over to Washington County juvenile authorities.

James Cox, Candidate For President, Is Dead

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — James M. Cox, who arose from a country school teacher to be newspaper publisher, governor and Democratic candidate for president in 1920, died at his home here Monday night. He was 87.

On the 1920 ticket with Cox was vice presidential candidate Franklin D. Roosevelt, at that time assistant secretary of the Navy and who later was elected president four times.

Cox, Ohio's first three - time Democratic governor, won his party's nomination for the presidency on the 44th ballot in the 1920 San Francisco convention after a heated contest against U.S. Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer and Sen. William G. McAdoo.

Cox's nomination for president made certain an Ohio newspaperman would be elected the country's chief executive.

Beaten By Harding

The Republicans had nominated Warren G. Harding, a U.S. senator and publisher of the Marion (Ohio) Star. Harding won a sweeping victory with his front porch campaign calling for a "return to normalcy."

Cox and Roosevelt had taken a strong stand in support of Woodrow Wilson's position for a League of Nations, and this was one of the factors political sources said contributed to their defeat.

The Governor, as Cox was affectionately known, served two terms in the U.S. House of Representatives and was an active civic leader.

His newspaper holdings include the Dayton Daily News, Dayton Journal Herald, the Springfield (Ohio) Morning Sun and the Daily News; the Miami (Fla.) Daily News and the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal and Atlanta Constitution.

He also owned WHIO and WHIO-TV in Dayton, WSB and WSB-TV in Atlanta and was a part owner of WCKR radio station and WCKT television station in Miami, Fla.

Also A Golfer

Cox, who shot a good game of golf at 75, died as the country's leading professionals, many his personal friends, arrived here for the National PGA Tourney Wednesday.

The Governor's interest in golf was the starting point for one of the country's best known Washington correspondents. He was impressed with his caddie, James R. (Scotty) Reston, and gave the boy a job as sports writer at Dayton. Reston is now head of the New York Times Washington Bureau.

Cox's family announced that a private burial service would be held at Woodlawn Cemetery here Wednesday. At 12 o'clock noon (est), a memorial service will be held in Christ Episcopal Church here.

The family asked that flowers not be sent to the service. Instead, the family suggested those wishing to send flowers could contribute the money to their favorite charity.

State Scouts Stage Show at Jamboree

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UP) — The last great show of the fourth National Boy Scout Jamboree was staged here Monday night by some 500 scouts from Region 3, comprising Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The show in the huge arena featured talent skits and rescue demonstrations by Explorer Scouts Music was provided by two Scout bands, the 2nd Army Kiltie Band, and te Kingston, NY., Drum and Bugle Corps which displayed Precision marching.

Bob Feller, former Cleveland Indians pitcher, addressed the Scouts and urged them to develop character as the most important trait in their lives. He told the Scouts it would stick to them "like a shadow" for the rest of their lives.

Earlier, Region 3 honored the governors of their five states with gold framed presentations of an official neckerchief and emblems of the jamboree and the jubilee jamboree to be held in England next month.

A Scout official said plans were being drawn up by the U.S. Information Bureau of the State Department to take three colorful Scout exhibits at the jamboree to cities in countries around the world.

Edward Belason, director of exhibits, said that while the plans were still in the formative stage, he was pleased with an inspection by the Information Bureau which visited the Jamboree to see the exhibits.

"They thought it would be a good idea to tell the Scout story in other lands as part of our nation's program of world peace and brotherhood," Belason said.

The exhibits, which are divided into a story of scouting, literature and Boys' Life, the Scout magazine, were created by Belason and his two assistants.

Seven Persons Killed; Two Hurt In Head-on Crash

YORK, Pa. (UP)—Seven persons were killed and two others injured seriously today in a head-on crash of two speeding automobiles on the Lincoln Highway about four miles west of here.

Coroner Lester Sell, who has held the post for the last 12 years, described the accident as the "worst highway masacre" he has known in York County.

State police said the cars' speedometers showed one was traveling at 62 miles an hour and the other 55 miles an hour at the time of impact. The legal speed limit on the highway is 50 miles an hour.

Six of the victims were apparently killed instantly. The other, Mrs. Delta Hoke, 52, Abbotstown died about four hours later in Westside Osteopathic Hospital.

Area Alderman Shot in Hand While Boating

Monongahela Alderman Byron C. Coleman, 46, is in Presbyterian Hospital, Pittsburgh, today after being shot in the hand while boating with friends on the Allegheny River near New Kensington.

New Kensington police said the shot may have come from a group of boys shooting at targets with .22 caliber rifles. The bullet struck Coleman and lodged in his right thumb.

Coleman and his wife were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Long, of Monongahela, for a Saturday cruise on the river.

Mrs. Coleman, who was standing beside her husband, had just leaned over to speak with one of the others in the group. The bullet whined over her head and struck her husband.

Krushchev Outlines Plans to Integrate Czech-Soviet Economy

By HENRY SHAPIRO

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UP) —Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev announced today that Russia and Czechoslovakia have agreed to unify their industrial and economic power so "we can successfully compete with the capitalist world."

In his farewell speech in Prague's old town square, Khrushchev disclosed the bare outline of a new coordination plan which would integrate the economies of the two Communist countries as never before.

"We discussed economic ties between the two countries," Khrushchev told the cheering crowd of tens of thousands. "We have to improve the coordination of the industry and agriculture of our two countries.

"We must better utilize our resources and all our capabilities. We need such coordination so that with the use of full mechanization and automation we can successfully compete with the capitalist world to produce such high productivity of labor as the capitalists can never dream of."

Khrushchev did not go into detail. Neither did the unrevealing formal communique issued this morning at the end of the week-long visit to Czechoslovakia by Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

But Khrushchev had spoken again and again of the need for tieing together the Czech and Soviet economies as he whistle-stopped across the country.

In one speech, he spoke of the factories of one socialist country producing for all the other socialist countries, of the need to specialize so there would be no duplication.

The tone of his speeches suggested that economic coordination would be revitalized throughout Eastern Europe.

This coordination has existed to some degree since the early 1950's. Two years ago, a "commission on mutual economic aid" was established as part of the so-called "Molotov plan" for Eastern Europe.

These arrangements seemed to have lapsed after the Hungarian and Polish upheavals against Moscow control last fall.

Has His Own Garbage System

CHATHAM, Ont. (UP)—Charlie Dobson has discovered that application of the theory that everyone has a streak of larceny helps him get rid of his garbage.

The 76-year-old man who lives in a neat cottage on the outskirts of this city just beyond the Chatham's garbage collection area. He fills a small box daily with his garbage of table scraps and old cans, wraps it attractively and places it on the shoulder of the highway in front of his dwelling.

"I've seen many a car stop, pick up the box and high-tail it down the road and I haven't had a box returned yet," he chuckled.

Police said the fire apparently was caused by a lighted cigaret. There were no visible burns on Gardner's body, they said.

Torrance Defends Contract

By ANTHONY R. CANNIFF

HARRISBURG (UP)—Suspended Turnpike Commissioner James F. Torrance, Export, will go back on the witness stand today in Dauphin County Court where he is one of nine defendants charged with a multi-million dollar swindle of turnpike funds.

Under questioning by his own attorney Monday, Torrance defended as "absolutely essential" a turnpike contract with the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, through which, the state charges, the commission was defrauded of almost eight million dollars.

The contract, approved by the commission and awarded February, 1955, was for mind - filling work in connection with construction of the Northeastern Extension. Torrance said the commission "thought it absolutely essential to build the road," and that he did not hear any other commission members express a contrary opinion.

The 69-year-old defendent emphatically denied that he "hampered or obstructed" a state Justice Department investigation of contracts between Manu-Mine and the commission, as charged in a misconduct in office indictment against him.

He said that in a special commission meeting in 1956, held in the office of Gov. George M. Leader, he opposed an investigation of Manu-Mine by the Justice Department on the ground the sole responsibility for the project rested with the commission.

But asked by his attorney if he had aside from that protest, cooperated with the authorities, Torrence said: "I did indeed."

Asked if he ever withheld information from the investigators, he replied: "Not one thing."

Unaware of Profit

Under cross-examination by prosecuting attorney Vincent G. Panati, Torrance told the jury he approved the contract without knowledge of the amount of work involved or the margin of profit to be made by the firm.

"I didn't have the slightest idea of their (Manu-Mine's) profit," profit," he replied to a question by Panati. "It was not a factor in my voting (for approval of the contract.)"

He said he relied upon the judgment of the commission engineering staff which drew up and recommended the contract to the commission.

Torrance said he knew when he approved the contract that the son of then commission chairman Thomas J. Evans was associated with Manu-Mine, but that he did not know that the company's president, Charles W. Stickler Jr., was Evans' nephew.

Both Strickler and Evans are on trial with Torrance for their part in the contract negotiation.

Torrance said he knew in approving the contract that it had not been submitted to competitive bidding. But asked why it was "negotiated" rather than awarded to a low bidder, he said: "You'll have to ask the engineers that. It was their decision."

He repeated the defense contention the contract was not subject to the usual competitive bidding requirement because it was for work designated "engineering," as distinguished from "construction."

The state charges the contract was "doctored" to look like an engineering pact, but that the project was, in fact, construction.

Torrance admitted that "quite often" commission contracts for work similar to that done by Manu-Mine were let for bids. Asked again why the Manu-Mine contract was not bid upon, he said: "Because the engineers did not advise us to do that."

Panati asked "Was your vote (in favor of the contract) a product of your own independent knowledge and thinking?"

"It certainly was," Torrance answered.

Singer Punched On Stage by Man from Crowd

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — William E. Fitzgerald, 29, who leaped from the audience at the Warner Theater Saturday night and punched singer Ella Fitzgerald while she was performing, was committed Monday to Ancora State Hospital for mental treatment.

Miss Fitzgerald refused to press charges against the man.

Fitzgerald, no relation to the singer, struck her on stage and had to be restrained by musicians and a policeman.

Police said Fitzgerald had been on probation for one month from the Veterans' Hospital at Lyons, N. J., where he had undergone treatment for a mental disorder. Acting Police Captain Ed Jacobson said Fitzgerald also had a record of an arrest in 1950 on a narcotics charge.

House Democrats Move East To Bring Up Tax Cutting Issue

WASHINGTON (UP) — House Democrats moved quickly today to try to get the jump on the administration on the politically-popular tax-cutting issue.

The Democrats brushed aside President Eisenhower's latest appeal not to cut taxes at this time and planned to start hearings promptly on the subject.

They viewed Eisenhower's recently disclosed order to cut back government spending two billion dollars as clearing the way for a tax slash recommendation next year. This would bring government outlays down to about 70 billion dollars.

The Democrats said they don't intend to let the President make the first move in this direction, nor do they intend to let the administration grab the credit for economizing sufficiently to justify a tax cut. They are also considering a plan to slap a ceiling of 68 or 69 billion dollars on government spending.

The House Appropriations Committee summoned Budget Director Percival F. Brundage to testify today on Eisenhower's spending cutback order. Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) said the committee wanted to find out what was behind the directive, how much Brundage expected to save and what is to be done with the surplus. Canno hinted the committee may try to push legislation to take back some of the surplus.

Whether the Democrats try to get a tax reduction through the House before the present session or wait until early next year still is undecided. If they do complete action this year Senate action still would be unlikely before next year.

Other congressional news:

Civil Rights: The Senate was expected to pass handily a motion to formally consider President Eisenhower's civil rights bill. A vote on the motion was set for late this afternoon. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), a leader in the rights fight, predicted it would be approved by a 2½ to 1 majority.

Rackets: Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said his Senate Rackets Committee would throw its spotlight next on the AFL Textile Workers Union. McClellan said the group would hear testimony next week that Textile President Anthony Valente and Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Klenert dipped into union funds for personal use. The committee resumed hearings today to wind up its investigations of Union Presidents Dave Beck of the Teamsters and James G. Cross of the Bakery Workers.

Foreign Aid: House leaders hoped to complete general debate today on President Eisenhower's foreign aid program in order to bring it to a vote Wednesday. Passage of the measure appeared certain and there seemed little chance members will cut heavily into the $3 242,333,000 program.

H-bomb: Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), ranking Republican on the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, said the United States is able to produce H-bombs "approximately 97 per cent clean." His figure was slightly higher than the 95 to 96 per cent estimate given by President Eisenhower July 3.

Pay-TV: Rep. Frank Chelf (D-Ky.), a member of the House Judiciary Committee, urged the Federal Communications Commission to proceed promptly with experiments of pay-as-you-see television. Chelf took issue with Committee Chairman Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) for demanding that the FCC first get congressional clearance.

Charles E. Marsh, of Greensburg, association vice president and chairman of the finance committee, reported that a letter soliciting convention funds is ready for distribution to participating Sunday schools.

Main speakers will be Dr. Robert C. Howe, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Pittsburgh and Dr. Clyde W. Meadows of Chambersburg, president of the state Sabbath School Association.

All sessions of the convention will be held in the Ligonier EUB Church except the banquets, which are scheduled for the borough's Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

Leader Signs Bill for An Expanded Public School Health Program

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today signed legislation for an expanded $10,800,000 public school health program.

Leader said the legislation "broadens state concern with the health of Pennsylvania's school children from its previous emphasis on physical examinations to a consideration of all the child's health needs."

The measure, effective immediately, calls for an annual ear test for grade school students; ear tests every two years for high school pupils; annual weight and height reports; and one chest x-ray during high school.

Physical checks will be made of the students when they enter school, and during the sixth and 11th grades. Dental appraisals will be made at entry into school and during the third and seventh grades. The physicians and dentists will send recommendations to the parents of any medical or dental attention needed.

The new law also provides that no pupil will be required to undergo an examination if it conflicts with religious beliefs and needy children may have medical and dental work done through their local public assistance agency.

The governor also signed measures to:

—Authorize the Welfare Department to select land sites for location of mental outpatient clinics.

—Appropriate $29,800,387 to cover deficiencies in the school employes' and state employes' retirement funds.

—Increase from $75,000 to $91,250 an appropriation under a 1953 act to purchase some seven acres adjacent to the state Farm Show buildings for use as a parking lot and additional construction.

Leader signed a batch of appropriation bills totaling $54,141,399, but sliced more than three million dollars from legislation covering the state's share of Social Security taxes of state workers.

He said the revision was in accordance with revised figures submitted by the state Social Security Bureau.

Other appropriation bills approved provide:

—$24,000 000 for the maintenance and operation of state-aided hospitals.

—$3,200,000 to municipalities in connection with construction and maintenance of sewage treatment plants.

—$2,800,000 fo slum clearance. The governor said the money would be used for urban redevelopment, although the bill also specified housing redevelopment. Leader had asked for five million dollars for housing and urban redevelopment.

—$24,399 to Dauphin County for expenses incurred by the special grand jury which investigated the affairs of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

As Democrats Pick Nominee for Judge

THE LEADERS of the Democratic party in Westmoreland County are in the process now of choosing a candidate for common pleas judge to complete the party's ticket for the November election.

The candidate chosen will stand for the judgeship held by the late Judge George H. McWherter, whose death occurred too late for nominees to be selected by the voters at the May primaries. Hence the candidates for the vacancy are being nominated by the respective committees of the major parties.

This process takes on unusual importance by reason of the fact that three of the county's four common pleas judgeships are at stake this year, an unprecedented circumstance which puts the county's political system to one of the most severe tests it has ever faced. The character of Westmoreland County justice for the next 10 years will be determined by the outcome of this election.

AT THE RISK of being considered hopelessly naive, we are obliged to point out to the Democratic leaders, as we pointed out to the Republicans when they were making their choice, that they must not consider this matter solely, or even primarily, from the standpoint of partisan strategy and advantage.

The Democratic party in Westmoreland County is well known to be controlled by some pretty hard-bitten professional politicians. They are past masters at the art of figuring the angles.

If left to their own devices, these leaders will not be likely to choose as a nominee for judge some competent lawyer who would be an independent, uncontrolled judge. They will be more likely to try to "promote" some party hack whose chief qualification would be a proven ability to take orders. This is the way these politicians have used their power in the past, and there is no reason to think they will use it any differently in the present situation.

BUT POWERFUL as these men are and however tightly they may seem to hold the reins of the Democratic party, they cannot be ignorant of the growing number of voters in Westmoreland County who are no longer willing to sell their votes cheaply. That was effectively demonstrated in the May primary by the large vote received by independent candidates.

Unless power had made the Democratic bosses drunk, they will not try to foist some stooge on the party as a candidate for judge. Instead they will seek to name some attorney whose personal and professional reputation is good enough to command the respect of all conscientious citizens, Democrats as well as Republicans.

We realize that this is asking a good deal of the Democratic politicians, and no one will be surprised if their choice reflects other considerations.

But in that case, independent voters who are concerned about the kind of justice Westmoreland County gets in the next decade can be expected to have their say in November.

Police and Press

AN ATTORNEY representing some Pittsburgh policemen appearing before a trial board said the other day that he was recommending that his clients and all other policemen "refuse to talk to newspapermen".

"If you tell a newspaperman anything, he'll come in and testify against you," the attorney said.

We doubt that this gentleman was speaking after mature consideration. It seems more likely that his remark was an outburst made on the spur of the moment.

It takes only a second's reflection to imagine what would happen if all policemen and other public servants were to adopt a standard policy of "refusing to talk to newspapermen." Communications between the people and their government would be almost completely severed. And when that happened, we could not have representative government as we know it.

The question is somewhat academic, of course. There are laws which protect the right of the public to know what its servants are doing.

Occasionally some misguided official will get the idea that he can control what the public learns about its own business. And we readily admit that the way some newspapermen go about their jobs tempts officials to "refuse to talk to newspapermen".

But these are exceptions. Conscientious officials realize that willing cooperation with the press can be a real help to them in rendering efficient service. And this is particularly true with respect to the police.

This is the time of year when a man discovers how much cheaper tomatoes are in the stores than in his garden.

An effective medicine is being made from turnips. But it probably won't do anything for tired blood.

Merry-Go-Round—

Utilities to Be Paid for Moving Lines

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The leadership of three congressmen is going to cost the taxpayers about two billion dollars extra for the new federal highway program. This will be the approximate amount to be paid to the gas, electric, telephone, and water companies for moving their poles, pipes and conduits when the highways are dened.

Mr. Pearson

In the past this has been paid by the utilities themselves. But the utilities are now telling state legislatures that Uncle Sam will pay 90 per cent of the bill, so the states might as well let the federal government pay for moving poles, pipes and conduits.

The three congressmen who paved the way for this juicy hike in the federal highway bill are: ex-Congressman George Dondero of Royal Oak, Mich.; Gordon Scherer of Cincinnati, Ohio; and Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, Ohio, all Republicans.

Three other congressmen warned their colleagues what would happen: Jack Dempsey of New Mexico, Robert Jones of Alabama, and Brady Gentry of Texas, all Democrats. However, Congress ignored their advice and decided to let each state decide whether to make the utilities pay.

Lobbyists Unleashed

It was a golden opportunity for companies like AT&T, which promptly unleashed its lobbyists in the various state legislatures. Now the Bureau of Public Roads reports that in 38 legislatures laws have been either introduced or passed to pay the utilities for moving their facilities as old highways are widened into modern highways.

The utilities get valuable access rights along public roads without paying a cent for the privilege, also frequently write off moving costs against taxes. Hence most states in the past have required them to move at their own expense.

Rep. Gentry has retired from Congress, but Dempsey and Jones are backing a new law that would prohibit any further handouts to the utilities, also bar them from receiving free access rights along new federal-aid highways.

NOTE — Rep. John Baldwin, Republican of Martinez, Calif., also urged that the utilities not pay for moving their facilities. His proposed concession was so bald-faced in its generosity that it had no chance to win. The smoother approach of Dondero, McGregor and Scherer of letting each state decide, played into the hands of utility lobbyists.

Our Biggest Carrier

This column recently told the inside story of how Capt. Robert Moore, skipper of the USS Saratoga, spent $65,000 to redecorate it for Eisenhower's overnight cruise. Members of the Saratoga's crew mimeographed a thousand copies of the column for distribution aboard ship. When Captain Moore got wind of it, however, the mimeographed copies were confiscated.

Captain Moore strides the bridge with a long cigarette holder clamped between his teeth, is as sharp a ship handler as the Navy has. But here are some other incidents taking place aboard the "Sara," our biggest carrier, which create a morale problem the Navy might well investigate.

Efficient Captain Moore once sent two bedspreads to the ship's laundry. One came back more shrunken and faded than the other. Irked, Moore claimed he had sent matching bedspreads to the laundry and confined the whole laundry crew to quarters for two days until his wife discovered he had sent the wrong bedspread to the laundry.

Moore tried to take a shower in his cabin and found no hot water. He summoned the chief engineer and ordered him to shut off the fresh water to the engineering gang's quarters. For four days, some 700 men couldn't take a fresh-water shower.

The Air Force 'Takes Over'

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Air Force generals aren't talking much about it — you don't need to when you're on top. At the Pentagon today the United States Air Force is on top to an extent it never dreamed possible.

Mr. Drummond

The fact is that not since the Unification Act was passed in 1947 has there been such a concentration of Air Force influence at the highest command of American and NATO forces as there is right now.

It is just about unanimous; it is unprecedented, and it is undoubtedly accidental.

You can't spread the field much more than this:

Air-minded, missile-minded former Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles, now is Deputy Secretary of Defense and by all signs will succeed Secretary Wilson as Secretary of Defense this year.

Former Chief of Staff of the Air Force, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, this month succeeded Adm. Arthur W. Radford as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the key co-ordinating post of military command.

After being filled in succession by three Army generals — Eisenhower Ridgway and Gruenther — the supreme command of NATO is today in the hands of one of the youngest and most brilliant of the American Air Force leaders, Gen. Lauris Norstad.

Air Force Leaders

Simultaneously the top command of the United States Air Force itself has gone to the powerful team of Gen. Thomas D. White, an imaginative strategist, as chief of staff, and Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, one of the Air Force's most impressive personalities, who after building the strategic air arm almost single-handedly now is deputy chief of staff.

This potent concentration of Air Force leadership at the peak of the Pentagon and NATO was not planned; it came about through force of circumstance. Donald Quarles would have moved upward as well from the Secretaryship of the Army as from the Secretaryship of the Air Force. Not until this month has an Air Force general been chairman of the Joint Chiefs since the loose unification of the services ten years ago. There was certainly no reason to pass over General Twining as Admiral Radford's successor; quite the contrary. And on the basis of ability and experience, General Norstad was the logical successor to General Gruenther at NATO.

But these circumstances do not make a concentration of Air Force brains and influence in nearly all the top commands any the less potent.

It is only being frank to state that, at a time when Congress is disposed to give the Air Force whatever it reasonably asks and when Secretary Wilson has put a 200-mile-range limitation on missiles the Army develops, the other services are worried about the consequences of what they would consider an imbalance in the top command, however accidentally it may have come about.

Quarles Intentions Good

Everyone concedes that Deputy Secretary of Defense Quarles does not intend to be prejudiced by the fact that his extended Pentagon experience was wholly with the Air Force. But it does linger on. Even today, when Mr. Quarles is called upon to sit in judgment on competing demands from the three services, he is known to say,

"Why, we couldn't do that!" and when asked who is the "we," his answer is, "I mean the Air Force."

Air Force thinking continues to give the Army and Navy a pretty low rating in missions and roles. This was evidenced anew at the latest three-service gathering of the top brass at Quantico at which the Air Force spokesman in a panel discussion took such a one-sided position that even his supporters were embarrassed.

This phase may well pass in the new rise of Air Force influence. Increased authority often begets increased sense of responsibility.

The final arbiter is always in the White House and conceivably the President might return to a theory he used to advocate after he had served as acting chairman of the Joint Chiefs. General Eisenhower's view then was that the Joint Chiefs should not be the operating heads of the three services and should discard their service uniforms and as much as possible of their one-service thinking.

The Lighter Side—

'Hot Dog' Denounced as 'Mean Bit of Vittle'

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Here we are brimful of summertime, and I am being badgered by the hot dog people about this being National Hot Dog Month and why don't I do something about it?

Certainly I will do something about it. The hot dog is a mean, low-down bit of vittle without a speck of character, moral fiber, imagination, beauty, responsibility, architectural soundness, hormonal integrity, or national consciousness.

This poor man's schnitzel has insidiously worked its way—bored from within, as it were—into such eminence in this country that it seems unpatriotic nowadays to talk about America without mentioning hot dogs. Yet, wherefore is it American?

In character? Nay, not a bit of it. There is no independence of spirit in the hot dog, no personal bite of conviction privately arrived at. Indeed, if it were not for a superficial audacity provided by a foreign overlay of mustard, the hot dog would be almost vegetable in its impact.

Troublesome Character

As an outdoor companion to man in this season, the hot dog shows a remarkable talent for getting into trouble. What happens to it at the beach? It gets clogged with sand. At ball games? Drips mustard all over you during tense moments. At picnics? Draws ants.

It was the hot dog, if you remember, that played a large part in the menu served in the late 1930's by the President of the United States to the King and Queen of Britain in an outdoor meal at Hyde Park, N.Y. Anglo-American relations have been rather queasy ever since.

Even the hot dog's defense posture is weak. It has no armor. In olden days it was clothed in gut. But about two decades ago it shed its casing and now comes to us naked and unashamed. Perhaps it is a national tendency toward modesty that impels us to drape a bun around this nudity in most instances.

Indeed, the weiner and the bun are so wedded that dictionaries generally are inclined to define "hot dog" as a package deal—a heated frankfurter placed in a split roll. The World Company's Webster adds a couple of other ingredients: "Often served with mustard, catsup, etc."

A Holiday Treat

The Merriam Company's unabridged Webster goes a step further, leaving the morsel in the mouth but assigning it a new role: "Also used interjectionally to express surprise or approval".

The greatest public concentration on hot dogs, according to the industry, is between Memorial Day and Labor Day. The absolute peak period of hot dog chomping —amounting practically to a national binge — is the Fourth of July holiday.

At the rate we're going, this year Americans will eat ten billion, one hundred and one million (10,101,000,000) hot dogs, which, if linked end to end, would stretch from here to the moon nearly three and a half times — 800,000 miles of munchery.

This comes to 60.1 hot dogs per person in the United States, a gain of 3.1 over last year. Why do we do it? Is the hot dog habit forming? No. There is only one reason. When there's a void in the stomach and you bite into one of the things, the taste buds flash a two-word message: Hot Dog!

Behind The News—

Algeria Terror Issue Makes French Crisis

By CHARLES M. McCANN

France is engaged in a civil rights battle which could cause the fall of the cabinet this week.

Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury is trying to get the National Assembly, the controlling house of parliament, to give his government special powers to suppress terrorism by Algerian nationalist rebels.

Mr. McCann

The trouble is that the special powers would be operative not only in Algeria but in France itself, where 400,000 Algerians live.

Members of parliament are afraid that if a tough government got into office the special powers might be used against Frenchmen as well as Algerians.

Nearly every party represented in parliament is against the special powers bill for that reason.

A two-day debate on the measure opened today in the National Assembly. Bourges - Maunoury is expected to follow up the debate by demanding a vote of confidence on it. The vote would be taken Friday.

It is being predicted freely that unless Bourges-Maunoury agrees to amend the bill radically, he will fail to win his confidence vote. That would mean he would have to resign.

Behind the governments request for special powers lies the belief that the terrorism which has kept Algeria in turmoil since Nov. 1, 1954, is going to be extended to France.

Police estimate that there are 2,000 active Algerian rebel agents in France. They force their fellow Algerian residents, under threat of death, to contribute to rebel funds.

It is indicated that the police have reason to believe that the rebels may open a big campaign of terrorism in France in an attempt to force the government to give Algeria independence. There have been many incidents of terror so far. So far, however, only Algerians have been the victims.

The Woman's View—

Designing Woman

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Watch styles follow other fashion trends, says Bettye Miller, a pretty brunette with time on her hands.

Miss Miller, 29, believes she is the only woman watch designer in the nation. She is staff designer for the Hamilton Watch Co., Lancaster, Pa., and helped on the final sketches for the first electric wrist watch which the firm recently introduced.

"Watch design follows fashion, but not fad," said Miss Miller on a visit to Manhattan. "A watch must be new enough to make people buy, but at the same time lasting. A woman won't change watches the way she changes hats."

Where Ideas Originate

Design ideas may come from a sleek new household appliance, a perfume flacon, or from a new car—"all industrial design is closely related, she explained Those fancy new tail fin designs on automobiles were reflected in watch cases too. "We just picked up the same sweep, the same curve," said Miss Miller.

She designs watches for both men and women. Women are demanding smaller watches each season, she said. Now she has done one with a dial about the size of a match head.

Men want watches paper - thin, with no ornamentation, and dials which can be read rapidly.

Oklahoma City Native

The designer was born in Oklahoma City. Full name Eleanor Bettye Jean Miller. "Every girl in Oklahoma is named Betty something-or-other," she said. "That's why I spell my name with the 'ye. . .makes it a little different anyway."

Miss Miller studied industrial art and design at Pratt Institute, New York, and Moore Institute of Art, Philadelphia.

Her favorite design won her the Diamonds U.S.A. annual award for creativity in the jewelry field. It was a lapel watch, shaped like a tiny globe, with the continents done in polished platinum, roundstones forming the Equator, and baguette diamonds marking latitude and longitude. It cost $5,000.

Dedication Ceremony 'Drained Out'

You can't help but feel sorry for red-faced Nemacolin Country Club officials after 110,000 gallons of water drained out of their spanking new swimming pool spoiling dedication plans set for last Sunday. The drainage marked the second set-back for the pool opening, as pipe which was to be used to fill the pool failed to arrive last week but Richeyville Firemen graciously offered to provide the water via their pumper truck and they did, only to have their efforts go for naught. The kiddies had a swell time Sunday, however, their new wading pool held water and Johnny and Mary splashed while Mom and Dad sweltered . . . A new dedication date will be announced soon.

Chalk up another one for Stan Musial as a team player. No sooner had Stan announced that he would no longer play doubleheaders than the Cards needed his big bat Sunday in the second game after dropping the opener of the twin-bill to the Phillies. Stan came through but the other Cards didn't and St. Louis' lead was cut 1½ games . . . Where else but Pittsburgh would 28,129 fans turn out for a night tilt featuring a seventh place club or 24,540 for a Sunday double-bill featuring the same team against power-laden Cincinnati? —

Fans Make Buc Move Report 'Empty'

Pittsburgh and the surrounding area's wonderful support of the Bucs make a report that Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky recently stated the Pirates or Cincinnati would move their franchise to Denver, Colo. look "empty." If ever two cities deserved major league ball it's Pittsburgh and Cincinnati . . . Joe Shoaf, who starred on the line for Brownsville High School in the mid-40's has been elected to the faculty there. Shoaf also played at California State Teachers College . . . Not only will Centerville's Pete Daly be minus Red Worrell when the 1957 football season opens but eight other Wildcat starters will also be missing. Only two regulars back will be End Lee Pagac and Halfback Paul Stipkovich.

Conflicting reports keep filtering through over the fisticuffs at Charleroi Stadium the other day. Latest report has a third party involved, not in the actual fighting but in the very interesting preliminaries leading up to the fight. If the "misunderstanding" came about the way the rumors have it both principals must feel very sorry and a little silly now . . . Despite the terrific play of the Monessen Ozarks lately, our correspondent Lou Kichinko reports the fan support is very poor. The Ozarks took up a collection for the first time in three games Friday night and made just enough to reward the bat boy, field "liner" and "ball hawks" (boys who chase balls going out of the park) . . . Lou also reports an unusual happening Friday — each team loading the bases with no outs but failing to score, neat pitching by the O's Bruce Pezzelle and the Vans' Joe Wujcik.

Americans Win, 4-3; Nationals No-Hitted In 6-0 Setback

Monessen's Little League American Division All-Stars came through in fine fashion last night to cop a 4-3 decision over Glassport and advance in District play-off competition but the local Nationals were not so fortunate.

In fact McKeesport's Jimmy Sabo no-hitted the Nats for a 6-0 victory.

Playing at the Annex last night, the Americans won mainly on the fine play of Eric Crabtree who tossed a two-hitter at the losers and clubbed a home run with one aboard in the first inning to give the locals a head start.

Walks

The three runs scored against him in the fifth came when he suffered a slight let-down and issued six walks before Bruce Nedrow came in to half the "gift-giving" just in time.

Singles by Paul Barton and Gerald Harter and a double by Earl Stevenson gave the locals their run in the second while a base on balls, fielder's choice and single by Nedrow produced the fourth marker in the fourth.

Most sensational defensive play of the game was Paul Barton's save on a line drive in the third to half a Glassport rally.

Meanwhile, at the Stadium the Nationals were having trouble solving Sabo but finally coaxed two walks in the fourth but failing, however, to plate a run.

Almost

Alert Fielding by McKeesport prevented George Katsularis from getting the lone Monessen hit of the game when he was thrown out from right field to first base.

The Nationals now bow out of tourney play, the Americans await a Thursday battle with the winner of the Brownsville-McKeesport game.

Line score follow:

Bellmar Decision Monday

Bellmar High School officials will definitely name their basketball coach next Monday night at a joint board meeting.

This was announced today by Joint Board President Blandon Bulger, commenting on a meeting with four candidates last night.

He stated that the four candidates were interviewed, some of them for the second time and it was decided to withhold any announcement until next Monday's meeting

The names of the candidates will not be revealed, he stated.

Bellmar has been trying for quite some time to come up with a successor to Jack Flora, who was relieved of his duties after last season.

Grid Aide?

It is understood the cage coach will also be a new grid assistant to Bap Manzini, succeeding resigned Frank Mizakar.

Fayette City Tops Perryopolis, 5-3

Perryopolis, next foe of the Monessen Ozarks (here Wednesday) dropped a 5-3 decision to Fayette City as Tinse Manown supplied the hitting punch for the winners to back up the five-hit hurling by Don Young and Frank Valla.

Manown clubbed a double and a single in two trips. Harry Muckle, Fayette City Manager, also connected for two for four.

A big sixth in which they scored four runs provided Fayette City, the Legionnaires with their winning margin.

Joe Hancharik's double with the bases loaded in the seventh provided the only two runs for Perry.

Briggs Stops Ozarks With Three-Hitter

Charleroi's fastballing Fred Briggs stopped the Monessen Ozarks, 5-0, on three hits last night to flag down the losers' bid to make the first division.

Briggs was superb all the way. He fanned six and was never in trouble.

Monessen's Bill Mitnick tossed eight hit ball, but he was supported with some loose fielding.

The Charleroians punched over a tally in the second inning on singles by Jim Lazzari and Carmen Cappelli, plus an infield out.

In the third, the home team got two more runs. Singles by Roy Barli and George Zuraw, as well as an error, accounted for the markers.

In the fourth two errors let in another Charleroi run. The final tally came in on the sixth on a walk, sacrifice and single by Cappelli.

The game was played at Charleroi, instead of Monessen as originally scheduled. By agreement, an earlier game was played in Monessen, so yesterday's tussle was shifted to Charleroi.

Ippolito in TKO Win Over Salem

NEW YORK (UP)—Lightweight Frankie Ippolito, the Manhattan College graduate who used mitts and mathematics to stop Tommy Salem Monday night, will get another TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena, Aug. 5.

Promoter Teddy Brenner matched 2-year-old Ippolito today with dangerous Johnny Busso of New York, who upset fifth-ranking Larry Boardman on June 28.

Ippolito, weighing 139 pounds to 136 for Salem of Cleveland, floored Tommy twice and registered an upset technical knockout at 1:37 of the sixth round. Salem, favored at 8-5, was bleeding from a cut on his left eyelid, but the bout was stopped because he had been beaten into helplessness on the ropes.

"I changed my style last night," Frankie explained. I used some very simple mathematics—the law of leverage—and came down off my toes to punch flat-footedly for more power."

Jake's Widow First State Woman Manager

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mrs. Julia Mintz, widow of Jake Mintz, was licensed Monday as the only woman fight manager in Pensylvania.

She immediately signed middleweight Wilf Greaves, a Canadian fighting out of Pittsburgh, to a three-year contract. Greaves had been managed by Mintz prior to his death last month.

Mrs. Mintz said she had no matches definitely lined up for Greaves, but added, "I've got a lot of offers."

The climax of Mintz's career came when he managed Ezzard Charles to a world heavyweight championship.

BALTIMORE (UP)—Don Shula, a defensive halfback with five seasons of pro football experience; and George Preas, an offensive tackle, are the latest players to sign their 1957 contracts with the Baltimore Colts.

PGA Tourney 'Toughest'

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — Wally Burkemo, one of the toughest little men in the history of match play, today analyzed the PGA golf championship as the toughest tournament in the world "any way you look at it."

Burkemo, the blue - eyed blond from Franklin, Mich., should know about how tough things can be. He discovered that much as a twice - wounded infantry sergeant with the 7th Armored Division in Normandy and as a three - time finalist in this fairway rat race which opens Wednesday at Miami Valley Country Club.

"Physically, mentally or any way you want to look at it, this is the toughest tournament in the world because you have to play a scheduled 162 holes in five days to hit the jackpot," he explained.

There is a great difference between medal play — the mere matching of total scores for 72 holes as most tournaments are played—and the man-to-man PGA championship.

"The greatest difference is that in match play there is the need to think on every hole and there is pressure on every hole" he asserted. "In medal play, the tendency is, if you aren't going right and you hear about the 68s and 69s the early starters turned in, to lose your incentive when you have one or two bad holes.

"But in match play," he added, "you can lose one hole with a big fat six or seven and bounce right back."

Burkemo took his first crack at the PGA in 1951—going all the way to the finals against Sam Snead at Oakmont.

PONY Playoff Card Set

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Aimless Hitting

When you get on the practice tee, work on your fundamentals. When you hit a bad shot, don't hit another ball until you determine what went wrong on the last one.

Simulate actual playing conditions as nearly as possible. Pick out a spot to aim at on every practice shot.

Do not ignore your pitching irons while practicing. Many golfers confine their practice almost solely to the woods and long irons. They get more pleasure from hitting the longer shots, no doubt. But practice with the short irons will help as much on the course — maybe more.

Double-Cross If Bums Don't Move—LA

LOS ANGELES (UP) — A Los Angeles official today charged it would be the biggest double cross in history" if the Brooklyn Dodgers failed to come to Los Angeles next year.

The statement was made by County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn who claimed Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley had gone so far in lining up Los Angeles as the new home for the Dodgers that the city and county were about to rip apart sections of the 105,000-seat Memorial Coliseum to make it a temporary field for the team until a baseball stadium could be built.

At the same time a joint city-county group announced it was appointing a business executive to get a firm agreement" from O'Malley that he intends bringing the Brooklyn club here.

The statements followed a New York World - Telegram and Sun story that O'Malley was about to be offered the ideal" stadium site he sought in the heart of Brooklyn. The New York account quoted a spokesman for O'Malley as saying he was "extremely interested" in the new site offer if it is made.

Hahn declared he was revealing a recent request from O'Malley that Los Angeles should get the Coliseum ready for use by the Dodgers next year because of the latest New York reports.

Hahn indicated, however, that he really doubted if the offer of a site was sufficient to change O'Malley's mind.

"I don't think there's anything to it," Hahn said when informed of the New York plan, unless the people of Los Angeles have been given the biggest double cross in history. And I don't think they've been double-crossed."

"I talked to Mr. O'Malley and he told me: "Kenny, get all the arrangements ready.'"

Meanwhile, San Francisco Mayor George Christopher told a press conference Monday that the financial burden of pay-as-you-see television may keep the New York Giants and the Dodgers away from the West Coast.

He said Mark Sullivan, president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., had told him it would cost between 60 and 70 million dollars to install a Skiatron closed-circuit TV system in San Francisco and that the installation would take at least three years.

Badly Slumping Bucs Face Cubs In Two Games

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, with five straight losses, were scheduled to face the Chicago Cubs in two contests tonight, including the resumption of a game suspended last June 16.

In the regular game, Bob Friend (6-11) will go to the mound against Bob Rush (1-8).

The suspended game, to be played prior to the regular contest, will begin in the Pirate half of the seventh with Vernon Law on the mound and the score 4-4. The umpires halted the game due to the Sunday curfew law after Gene Freese fouled out to Ernie Banks, and the resumption of play will begin at that point.

The two teams have been fighting it out all summer in an effort to stay out of the cellar. Going into tonight's contests, the Pirates are in seventh place, ahead of the Cubs by one-half game. In season play between the two cellar rivals, the Cubs have a 7-3 edge.

CINCINNATI (UP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs will conduct a tryout camp for youngsters who have completed their high school and American Legion baseball eligibility today at Crosley Field.

Pitcher Bosox Ignored as Too Small Stands 'Big' for Phils

By TIM MORIARTY

Handsome Jack Sanford, ignored as a major league prospect by the Boston Red Sox 10 years ago because he was too small, stood at least 10 feet tall today in the eyes of Philadelphia's pennant-smelling fans.

The rookie right hander from Wellesley, Mass., pitched the Phillies into first place in the National League Monday night by posting a five-hit, 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It marked the first time the Phillies occupied the top rung of the NL standings at this stage of the campaign since 1950. And nobody in Philadelphia has to be reminded that was the year the old Whiz Kids won the pennant.

This new group of Whiz Kids now has won 12 of its last 14 games, moving from fifth place on July 1 to its present elevation —a half-game ahead of the Cardinals. Sanford has been the "big man" in this drive, allowing only 15 hits while posting three straight complete game victories.

Nabs Strikeout Leadership

In raising his season won-and-lost record to 12-2 Monday night against the Cardinals, Sanford took over the major league strikeout leadership by whiffing seven men. The blond, blue-eyed New Englander has totaled 111 strikeouts, one more than Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians.

The only St. Louis player who gave Sanford trouble was Alvin Dark, The veteran shortstop tripled in the fourth and scored on Stan Musial's sacrifice fly, then homered in the eighth to account for both St. Louis runs.

However, Willie Jones treated Sanford to a 2-0 lead in the second inning with a two-run homer and the Phillies chased Vinegar Bend Mizell in the third with a four-run burst, featured by Granny Hamner's two-run double.

The Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the Milwaukee Braves, 20-4, and the New York Giants whipped the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in other NL action. The Washington Senators raced to a 10-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in the only American League game.

Neal Homers Twice

The Dodgers clubbed five Milwaukee pitchers for 16 hits, including a pair of home runs by Charley Neal, in moving to within two games of the lead. Duke Snider, Sandy Amoros and winning pitcher Don Drysdale also homered for the Dodgers, who hustled to a 9-1 lead within four innings and then added a nine-run burst in the eighth frame.

Willie Mays, whose 12th-inning home run crushed the Cubs Sunday, turned on his Chicago "cousins" for the second straight day with a two-run circuit blow in the third inning that provided the Giants with their winning margin. Johnny Antonelli picked up his ninth victory, although he needed relief from Al Worthington in the eighth inning. Don Mueller also homered for the Giants.

Russ Kemmerer hit his first major league home run and scattered 12 hits in pitching the Senators to their victory over the Athletics. Lou Berberet and Faye Throneberry also homered for Washington and Tim Thompson clouted one for Kansas City.

Flam Opens Title Defense Today

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (UP) — Defending champion Herb Flam today opens his conquest for a second straight men's singles title in the U.S. Lawn Assn.'s National Clay Courts championships.

The Beverly Hills, Calif., star—seeded No. 1—drew a first-round bye and begins action with a second-round match against William Cullen, Southport, Conn., who also had a first-round bye.

Meanwhile, Althea Gibson, first Negro to win the Wimbledon women's singles title, easily swept past Lois Smith of Glenview, Ill., in straight sets, 6-0, 6-0 for a first-round triumph.

Miss Gibson, top favorite in the women's field, wasn't expected to encounter any difficulty either in her second-round match against Sally Bockwinkel, River Forest.

Also beginning play today were Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, seeded No. 2, and Darlene Hard, Montebello, Calif., who lost to Miss Gibson for the Wimbledon crown this year.

Hoad Teams With Boss in Doubles

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UP)—Lew Hoad, Jack Kramer's newest pro tennis attraction, will limit his play to a doubles appearance with his boss when the Tournament of Champions resumes today after a one-day layoff.

Today's singles will pit Pancho Gonzales, world pro champion, against Ken Rosewall and Tony Trabert against Pancho Segura in the round-robin competition. In doubles, the Hoad - Kramer team will play Segura and Dinny Pails while Gonzales and Rosewall will meet Trabert and Frank Sedgman.

Hoad, who accepted a $125,000 contract last week and began his pro career Sunday by trimming Sedgman in straight sets, is slated to play his first match against Gonzales Sunday in the tournament wind-up.

Wildcats Turn Out to Be Living Room Pets

"One afternoon in May a high school student named Ralph Mason took his dog on a hike in the Steam Mill Pine section of Cameron County," reports Game Protector Norman Erickson.

"They were climbing over a stony ledge when suddenly the dog scared a wildcat from under a large rock. While waiting for his dog to return from the chase Ralph heard peculiar sounds coming from the spot the cat had left. He investigated and there he discovered three little wildcats only several days old.

"This is the first I ever heard of a litter of wildcats being found this young", said Erickson. Later, I bargained with Ralph at his home and obtained two of the little fellows. Their eyes opened in due time, and they are doing fine.

"My two young sons, Eric and Lee, spend hours romping with their pets on the living room floor every evening. The kittens have attracted a great deal of interest".

Special Season—

There will be a state-wide, three-day special antlerless deer season following the antlered deer season. The dates are: December 16, 17 and 18 — Monday through Wednesday. The hours, all three days, are 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Hunters who desire to avail themselves of this special season must possess an antlerless deer license in addition to the current hunting license. Special antlerless licenses will be allocated by counties in accordance with the present provisions of the Game Law. They will be obtainable only from county treasurers in the county, in which the individual desires to hunt. Detailed information as to the allocations will be forthcoming directly. Approximately 336,500 antlerless licenses will be available. This is about 100,000 more than in 1955.

Having studied the deer population this spring, following the mild winter kill period, the Game Commission believes an antlerless season this year will bring the herd more nearly in balance. This special season will also provide additional sport for hunters, tasty meat for the table, a reduction in crop and forest damage and lessen highway accidents caused by these big game animals.

As in past, antlerless deer licenses will later be assigned to each county in relation to the number of deer the survey shows should be harvested in that county.

BELLE VERNON AND DISTRICT NEWS

Belle Vernon — North Belle Vernon — Fairhope — Washington Township — Speers

Correspondent: Mrs. John Hurley — Phone B. V. 1058

Former Speers Residents Here

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Liggett and daughters, of Orlando, Fla., former residents of Speers Hill, were guests of honor at a neighborhood picnic supper held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Myers, of Speers Hill.

There were 17 families from Lewis Ave., Charles St. and State St. entertained in the garden of the Myers home. The guest list numbered 45.

All of the guests brought covered dishes and the highlight of the evening was the serving of supper.

The Liggetts have been visiting in California, Pa. with Mr. Liggett's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rusnak and son, Rickie, of Washington, D. C. spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kissler, of East Belle Vernon. Other guests at the Kissler home are Mrs. Kissler's sister, Mrs. Josephine Gray and son, Eddie, of Indianola and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Martha Wylam, of Canonsburg.

Ladies Sodality Groups in Combined Meeting Here

A combined meeting of the Junior and Senior Young Ladies Sodality groups was held last Sunday at St. Sebastian R. C. Church. The girls attended the 9 a. m. mass and received Holy Communion before the business session.

Prefect Dorothy Luzanski was in charge and following the opening ceremonies several matters of business were discussed. The assessment was sent to the District Sodality.

Plans were discussed for the operation of a nursery while masses are being conducted in the church on Sunday morning. This project would require the services of girls from both the Junior and Senior groups, and it was decided not to start this activity until fall, when both groups will resume a full program.

Plans were also discussed for making a trip to Pittsburgh to see the moving picture, "The Ten Commandments". The exact date has not yet been chosen or details for the trip completed.

Another activity arranged for members of both groups is a picnic to be held at Lake Forest on Aug. 11 at 1 p. m. Guests may be invited by the girls, who are each to supply their picnic luncheon. Transportation arrangements will be arranged at the next meeting, which was scheduled for Aug. 4, at 9 a. m., when the girls will receive Holy Communion.

The program feature for the session was a talk titled, "Requirements for Receiving Holy Communion." The speaker was the Rev. David L. Fisher.

Members of both Sodality groups assisted with the lawn fete held on the lawn at St. Sebastian last week. All proceeds were designated for the church building fund.

Leave by Plane For South Wales

On Sunday a group of friends and relatives held a farewell party for the family at the home of Mrs. F. J. Nussbaumer, Belle Vernon R. D. 2, a sister of Mrs. Belavich. Buffet refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Belavich, of Belle Vernon R. D. 2, accompanied by their son, Joseph Edward, aged 10 and daughter, Sheila, aged 8, left yesterday for Europe.

The family left from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport for New York City, where they took off for South Wales. They will remain in South Wales for the next two years. Mr. Belavich will be employed as a field engineer.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kissler, of Mulberry St., are vacationing in Englewood, Fla. as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Kohler, former local residents.

Mrs. Theresa Baffoni left by plane for her home in Burbank, Calif., after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Haffner, of Green St., and other district relatives and friends. She is a former local resident.

Delmas Lazzari, of Jones St., is recovering from major surgery in the Magee Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. James Trombino, of Market St., have returned from a 10 day trip to Montreal, Can.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Lazzari and children, of Hartford, Conn. spent last week visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lazzari, of Fifth St.

Mrs. Ann Luzanski and Mrs. Anna Sarnosky, of Lynnwood, left this morning to visit the former's son, Thomas, who is attending the Natioanl Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge. They plan to return home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldberg and children, of Graham St. have returned home from Florida, where they have been vacationing with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and son, Jimmie, of Main St., have returned home after spending a few days in New York City.

George Usher, of Belle Vernon, has been admitted to the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Van Miles Johnson, of Belle Vernon R. D., is undergoing medical treatment in the Monongahela Memorial Hospital.

Visit Son at Scout Jamboree

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dayner, of 445 Hill St., spent the weekend with their son, Denny, who is attending the Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge.

Denny, an explorer scout, representing the Westmoreland-Fayette County area, was chosen patrol leader in a pre-jamboree training session held at Camp Conestoga.

The Dayners attended the opening evening ceremony at which Vice President Richard Nixon addressed the 50,000 Boy Scouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayner visited in Philadelphia and other eastern points of interest after leaving the camp site.

Outdoor Concert Here Sunday

An outdoor concert will be presented by the Belle Vernon Musical Society Band on Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock on the lawn of the Musical Society Hall, Grant and Speer Sts.

Band Director Ernest Dolfi will direct the presentation, and the musical ensemble will present a program of popular and classical selections.

The program will include: Klaxon March; selections from My Fair Lady; William Tell Overture; Begin the Beguine March; the Three Slippers, a trombone trio and the St. Louis Blues March.

The concert is open to the general public and there is no admission.

Family Reunion Held on Saturday

Several local people were in attendance at the Sheppard-Scheinert family reunion held on Saturday at the Bushy Run Battlefield State Park. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Boston, children Paul and Donice, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Como and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Como and daughter, Shirley.

George Boston's mother was the late Mrs. Mary Ann Scheinert Boston.

Games were played and there was swimming and other recreation. At 5:30 there was a picnic supper served.

About 150 members of the family and their friends attended.

Civic Club Plans Trip to Theatre

The Tuesday Evening Civic Club members will have another summer activity, a trip to the White Barn summer theatre near Irwin. The event has been set for Aug. 22, and a committee is contacting the club members regarding reservations.

A bus will be chartered to supply transportation.

In June members of the club were entertained at a picnic on the lawn of the home of Mrs. James Vance, Speer St.

Lions Club Plans Treat for Youths

Plans are being made by the Belle Vernon Lions Club for treating all of the boys, who have taken part in the junior and midget baseball program this summer.

The boys will be taken to Pittsburgh on Saturday to see a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball game at Forbes Field.

Harold Ringstad is in charge of the trip and he will announce detailed plans.

Coal Usage to About Equal That of 1956

NEW YORK (UP)—Coal consumption moved through an irregular pattern in the first four months this year, but usage for all of 1957 is expected to about equal the 501 million tons in 1956, according to the Value Line investment survey.

Electric utilities, largest users of coal, registered a small gain in consumption for the four months, and Value Line estimated that full year usage should reach 162 million tons, a rise of 4.5 per cent.

Demand from the iron and steel industry, the survey showed, was down 2 per cent through April, and is expected to total 107 million tons for the year, or 3.6 per cent less than 1956. Value line noted that the iron and steel industry now is operating well below capacity and prospects appear poor for any nearby marked recovery.

General industry demand for coal in the four months dropped 11.6 per cent, partly because of heavy stockpiling late last year, the survey said. Usage for the year is estimated at 100 million tons, a decline of 5 million.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Henry Nalepa, who passed away three years ago today, July 16, 1954.
Yes, he sleeps, but not forever,
In a lone and silent grave.
Oh, wake him not, Sweet Spirit, to suffer again
He slumbers so soundly, Oh, let him sleep on.
Just think how he suffered and
moaned with pain,
His sickness is ended, his troubles
are gone.
In the long day and night hours,
We both soothed him in vain,
Till God in His mercy sent down
from above
An angel that whispered a message of love.
God grand him eternal rest and let Thy perpetual light shine down upon him.
Sadly missed by his wife and son, John Henry Nalepa

Heroism in the Suburbs Related

PARK FTREST, Ill. (UP) — This is a story of heroism in the suburbs and after you get into it you'll know why no names are used.

It involves a woman. She has five children and one of them flushed a toy building block down the toilet.

The father of these children was out of town. The woman couldn't get a plumber because it was Sunday. So she turned off the water and somehow removed the toilet.

The block wouldn't budge despite her efforts. She thought maybe water pressure would free it. But she had turned off the water. She dammed the toilet outlet with a towel, turned the water on and moved the toilet to the backyard.

She had just started the job of freeing the trapped block with the garden hose when another of the children yelled, "Mommie, it's getting pretty wet in here." The towel had not held and a miniature Old Faithful was spouting in the bathroom.

The woman turned off the water again. She put the toilet in a little red wagon and wheeled it across the street to the home of a neighbor, where she asked for and was granted permission to use the hose and some water.

Pressure did not free the block but the sight of a woman hauling a toilet in a little red wagon across the street trailed by five children brought out many interested neighbors. These neighbors offered suggestions, but all fell short.

Finally the husband came home. He knew where there was a hardware store open. He put the toilet in the car and took it to the hardware store. The hardware man, a father himself, freed the block by sawing it in half.

The toilet was brought home and reinstalled.

An hour later there was another block in it.

Figures the Same

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Reporters looked forward with interest to meeting Valeria Fabrizzi, Miss Italy of the Miss Universe beauty contest. After all, it wasn't every girl whose measurements had been listed as 98-56-98. After reporters discovered the figures were in centimeters, they agreed the revised set—38½-23-38½—didn't lose anything in translation.

Singer Talks About His Exciting Career

(William Ewald is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Vic Damone, star of his own CBS-TV show.)

By VIC DAMONE

NEW YORK (UP) — The first time I was slated to sing on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts show I was the most excited young man in all of greater New York

I had been singing ever since about the time I started to walk and talk. It was as natural as breathing to me But actually appearing on the Godfrey show that night 10 years ago had me walking around the ceiling Godfrey talked to me just before I went on.

"Excited, Vic?" he asked

"I guess so," I said, trying to act casual. And what I thought was professional

"If you're not," he said, "you're in the wrong business"

Well, that was back in 1946, and except for a stretch in the Army I've been in the business ever since. Now, I've taken over the Arthur Godfrey Wednesday night TV spot with my own program. And I'm excited as I was at that first audition.

Exciting Business

Because show business is excitement. And anyone who doesn't feel it had better start worrying The people who feel excitement themselves are the ones who generate it.

Go to any party or social gathering and you'll see how attention centers on the people who feel and convey that sense of excitement You'll also notice that people who are bored are the most boring to be around

Great personalities like Ethel Merman, Bert Lahr, Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, the late Al Jolson, and scores of others, have that quality of being extremely excited about what they're doing.

Arthur Godfrey has it. Another artist who has it is Milton Berle, who has many times helped newcomers get started on their careers because he was able to feel some excitement about them.

I am one of the many show folks who are indebted to Milton Berle for his help It came early in my career

As a matter of fact, it came the minute I walked off-mike after doing my number in the Godfrey audition Berle had been watching the show from the sidelines.

In the few minutes I had been singing, Berle got to a telephone and talked a friend of his at La Martinique Club into auditioning me. This led to my first professional engagement

All of which proves that in addition to being a great entertainer, Uncle Miltie also has the distinction of being a great salesman And the incident gave me a great distinction, too.

It made me the only singer with no money in the bank, but with a millionaire for an agent.

Former Miss Universe Wants Acting Career

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Myrna Hansen proves why she's one of the few actress graduates of the Miss Universe contest She's so determined to act she disappeared for six months to find out about life around the country.

Citizens of Cincinnati, St Petersburg, La. and Amarillo, Tex. didn't know it, but Myrna, the Miss USA of four years ago, worked as a clerk and a waitress in their towns.

Myrna claims she changed her name and toured the nation on bus "because I knew so little about people and life and I couldn't give sincerity to a role"

Her plan apparently worked. She wound up with an MGM contract.

The brunette actress thinks her drive is why she's headed up the ladder while other entrants in the annual beauty contest have not fared so well with their acting goals

The only other contestants acting regularly in show business are Jackie Loughery, busy on TV, and Ingrid Goude, Miss Sweden of last year whose contract was renewed last week at Universal - International Studio. Last year's Miss Universe, Carol Morris, is winding up her job at UI.

Don't Wear Sun Specs Just to Be Fashionable

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Do you wear sun glasses for needed protection, or merely because it is fashionable? If it is for the latter reason, you are making a mistake

Anyone can buy a pair of sun glasses Stores across the nation have their counters piled high with glasses of varied colors and shapes.

But buying promiscuously and wearing sun glasses may cause more harm than good.

For one thing, most of you probably do not need the protection some sun glasses offer If you have light hued eyes — pale blue and gray — you probably are more susceptible to the glare of the sun than persons with eyes of darker shades. Because the glare is apt to be especially annoying and tiring to you, sun glasses may be in order.

However, there are sun glasses and there are sun glasses.

Select your pair very carefully. Cheaply ground glasses, or glasses which are not ground at all, may damage the eyes.

Properly ground and fitted, however, they can be very helpful by eliminating much of the suns' irritating ultraviolet and infarred rays.

If you have weak eyes, you have got to be doubly careful Have your sun glasses made according to your prescription instead of buying the clip-on type lenses.

When you use clip-ons over your regular spectacles, the retina of your eye has to adapt itself to two levels of brightness.

While sun glasses are helpful in many instances, no commercially marketed sun glass, as a rule, is sufficiently dense to permit you to gaze directly at the sun without causing harm to your eyes. This becomes more and more evident with every eclipse of the sun and the numerous cases of retinal burns which follow.

A couple of other things to keep in mind:

In some cases, colored glass has still proved unsuccessful.

The Journal of the American Medical Association issued this warning about colored glass recently:

"It causes difficulties for drivers since colored lenses impair a driver's ability to discriminate colors."

Donora Man Seeks Damages

Raymond P. Castner, of Donora, yesterday filed a damage suit in Washington County Court as a result of an auto accident on Aug. 7, 1955, on State St. in Speers.

In his suit, Castner claims he was severely and permanently injured when the car he was riding left the paved highway and went onto the berm, where it went out of control and crashed into a tree.

Listed as the defendant in the suit is the driver of the car, Harold Castner, Jr., 112 McKean Ave. The suit asks for damages of "more than $2,500."

Second Biggest Power Dam in World Rising in St. Lawrence

(The second of five dispatches by a UP correspondent who has toured the route of the St. Lawrence Seaway.)

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

MASSENA, N. Y. (UP) — The second biggest power dam in the world is rising in the St. Lawrence River between the United States and Canada.

Yet the work seems routine compared to the transformation of nature taking place nearby.

Construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway and power projects is one of the greatest building programs of all time. The job, now at its peak, is half done and on schedule.

Fifteen thousand workers using 70 million dollars worth of equipment are gathered around the upstate New York town of Massena and across the river in Canada to build and destroy, destroy and build.

Around the clock, six days a week, with a roar like a thousand bombers, 1 bulldozers, hydraulic jacks, tractors, shovels, draglines, gantry cranes, pile drivers and rock wagons scoop and dig, hammer and drill, dump and cart, lift and drop.

Float Steel Bridge

A steel bridge is floated four miles upstream to provide a closer crossing for workmen. It will be dynamited away. A road is laid to move equipment. Three hours later it is ripped up. A 3,000-foot dam is steel-piled into the river bed. It is only temporary.

Islands are sliced in half. Three islands are made one as if to prove that Humpty-Dumpty can be put back together again.

The long Sault (pronounced Soo) Rapids, once fearsome and impassable in their sharp 45-foot drop, are dried up. Rocks and old cannon balls lie sunning on the salt.

Next July a great man-made flood will creep across 700 square miles where cattle once grazed peacefully beneath the elms. Seven Canadian towns will be buried forever—but not wiped off the map.

The 6,500 persons who lived in them will have been moved with all their possessions to new towns with new houses, churches, schools and shops. The man who could not part with the old homestead will see his house placed on a u-shape trailer and rolled 10 miles away, plunked down without so much as a spilled glass of water, next to his lifelong neighbor.

Move Farm Families

Two hundred and 25 American farm families will have been moved out, and bulldozers and government-paid "arsonists" will have leveled and burned everything more than two inches across or a foot high.

The Seaway is not only construction. It is destruction of Ernie's Service Station and the Caribou Tea Room in Aultsville (population 450). Lloyd Davis will get a new filling station in New Iroquois; school teacher Edith Render, a modern bungalow to replace the old home in what already is a ghost town of tumbling houses with torn blinds and smashed windows.

Even the dead must be moved to make way for the new 35-mile lake. Behind green canopies, in the presence of clergymen, workmen dig up coffins and tombstones to place Lefevre next to McDonald again five miles inland.

In a project unique in international annals, Canadians meet Americans from Oregon and Arkansas at the international boundary at midstream. Each is building half of the 3,300-foot power dam. For the new high-level Roosevelt International Bridge, the United States will build the superstructure, Canadians the substructure.

Pool Resources

For the St. Lawrence Power Dam, the New York State Power Authority is throwing in 335 million dollars, and the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission the remainder to develop 1,800,000 kilowatts for upstate New York, Ontario, Quebec and Vermont, an output second only to Grand Coulee.

On the Seaway itself the U. S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., with money borrowed from the U. S. Treasury, is building two locks 800 feet long, 80 feet wide and 30 feet deep, named for President Eisenhower and the nearby Grass River. They can lift a 25,000-ton ship 45 feet in eight minutes. The United States also is constructing the Long Sault Canal, 10 miles long and 442 feet wide. Upstream it is dredging the channel and removing shoals in a 68-mile stretch of the Thousand Islands. Total U.S. cost: 140 million dollars to be repaid in 50 years through tolls collected from ships using the Seaway.

Opposite Massena, the Canadians, through their own seaway authority, were 90 per cent done in July with their Iroquois Lock and Canal. Downstream toward Montreal they are building two locks at Lachine and two at Soulanges and deepening the channel to the standard 27 feet at Lake St. Louis.

Improve Old Canal

To the west, Canada is deepening and widening seven locks of the old Welland Canal, which bypasses Niagara Falls in Canadian territory to link Lakes Ontario and Erie. Total cost to Canada: 285 million dollars.

The American locks will be ready next July, but it will be April, 1959, before Canada finishes work downstream and the new Seaway opens with only seven locks where once there had been 21.

Men are making this engineering miracle, but it is the machines which today make the project a 3D "spectacular." Three hundred thousand sidewalk superintendents a year visit the construction site; in later years tourists will drive through a tunnel beneath Eisenhower Lock.

The visitors of tomorrow will see ships instead of "the gentleman," a million-dollar dragline with a scoop large enough to hold 12 men or a pick-up truck. Where today there is dirt—enough to fill a trainload of boxcars which would reach 25,000 miles around the equator—tomorrow there will be water.

Area Business Declines Sharply, Bureau Reports

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh reported today that business in the district declined sharply last week.

The bureau said the decline followed the usual seasonal pattern.

Business activity, measured by the bureau's seasonally adjusted index, fell from 117.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average in the final week of May to 97.6 in the week ended July 6. The latter figure represented a new low for this year.

The bureau said the Independence Day holiday granted by many major industries and the annual vacations of members of the United Mine Workers Union were partially responsible for the falloff in business.

Pittsburgh steel mills in the first week of July operated at 85.0 per cent of practical capacity, a decline of six per cent from the previous week. Soft coal production was practically zero, the bureau reported. Electric power output was down and freight carloadings and river traffic slumped.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, as they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.
